FRESNO, CA — Fresno Chaffee Zoo is excited to announce that the six-week old male Malayan tapir calf officially has a name!

The Zoo called on the community to choose between three names for the calf — Ube, Winston, and Winchester. With over four thousand votes, the calf has officially been named Winston.

Winston was born on July 11th to female Ulan and male William. This birth marks a historic milestone, as he is the first Malayan tapir calf to be born at Fresno Chaffee Zoo. For now, Winston and Ulan will continue to bond behind the scenes.

The community can continue to see updates on mom and her calf by following along on the Zoo's social media, where an official announcement will be made when they debut on their habitat in Kingdoms of Asia. If the public would like to show their support for the babies at the Zoo, virtual adopts are now available on the Zoo's website fcz.org or at this link: <https://fcz.org/zooborns/>
